À mes amis russes et polonais-Mikhail Aleksandrovich Bakunin 1862 LA REVUE SOCIALISTE- 1896 M. Witte Et Les Finances Russes D'après Des Documents Officiels Et Inédits-Elie de Cyon 1895 For Peace and Money-Jennifer Siegel 2014-11-03 From the late imperial period until 1922, the British and French made private and government loans to Russia, making it the foremost international debtor country in pre-World War I Europe. To finance the modernization of industry, the construction of public works projects, the building of railroads, and the development of the military-industrial complex, Russia's ministers of finance, municipal leaders, and nascent manufacturing class turned, time and time again, to foreign capital. From the forging of the Franco-Russian alliance onwards, Russia's needs were met, first and foremost, by France and Great Britain, its allies, and diplomatic partners in the developing Triple Entente. Russia's continued access to those ready lenders ensured that the empire of the Tsars would not be tempted away from its alliance and entente partners. This web of financial and political interdependence affected both foreign policy and domestic society in all three countries. The Russian state was so heavily indebted to its western creditors, rendering those western economies almost prisoners to this debt, that the debtor nation in many ways had the upper hand; the Russian government at times was actually able to dictate policy to its French and British counterparts. Those nations' investing classes-which, in France in particular, spanned not only the upper classes but the middle, rentier class, as well-had such a vast proportion of their savings wrapped up in Russian bonds that any default would have been catastrophic for their own economies. That default came not long after the Bolshevik Revolution brought to power a government who felt no responsibility, whatsoever, for the debts accrued by the tsars for the purpose of oppressing Russia's workers and peasants. The ensuing effect on allied morale, the Anglo-French relationship, and, ultimately, on international relations in the twentieth century, was grim and far-reaching. Jennifer Siegel narrates a classic tale of money and power in the modern era-an age of economic interconnectivity and great power interdependency-involving such figures as Lord Revelstoke, chairman of Baring Brothers, the British and French Rothschild cousins, and Sergei Witte, Russia's authoritative finance minister during much of this age of expansion. For Peace and Money highlights the importance of foreign capital in policymaking on the origins and conduct of World War I. The Basic Bakunin-Robert M. Cutler Mikhail Alexandrovich Bakunin, the anarchist, was a political thinker; his reputation, based partly on his appetite for action and partly on unsympathetic historiography, obscures this. Bakunin's social milieu influenced the manner in which he expressed his ideas, because he tried always to tailor them to whom he spoke, promoting so far as possible the revolutionary consciousness and socialist instincts of his audience.The works included in this volume nevertheless have a certain unity, because they all were intended for the same audience. The texts presented here date from the period of Bakunin's propaganda on behalf of the International Working-Men's Association. They thus belong to a phase of his activity central to his anarchism, which is generally agreed to be one of his most significant projects, and which marks the height of his influence during his life. Most of the items first appeared in the Swiss newspapers L'Egalite and Le Progres in 1869. Isaiiah Berlin, no great partisan of Bakunin's, has called him a gifted journalist, and Amedee Dunois considers these articles the best of Bakunin's written works. By making available in English an important and coherent set of Bakunin's writings, it is hoped to contribute to a more careful reevaluation of his thought. Michael Bakouine-Henry Seymour 1888 Cosmopolis- 1897 Le Poètes Russes; Anthologie Et Notices Biographiques-Emmanuel de Saint-Albin 1893 ABHB Annual Bibliography of the History of the Printed Book and Libraries-H. Vervliet 2013-11-11 The history of printing, books, and libraries, is confined only to a limited extent within the boundaries of individual countries. There are, indeed, few historical developments which have played a more universal role, in reaction against all kinds of particularism, than type design, printing, book production, publishing, illustration, binding, librarianship, journal ism, and related subjects. Their history should be assessed and studied primarily in an international, not in a local, context. The bibliographical resources, however, which the historian of these sub jects has at his disposal correspond hardly at all to the essentially inter national character of the object of his studies. Since the appearance of the retrospective bibliography of BIG MORE and WYMAN, covering the subject comprehensively up to 1880, the only current bibliography has been the Internatwnale Bibliographie des Buch-und Bi bliothekswesens. Covering a representative part of newly published liter ature, it appeared from 1928, but did not survive the Second World War. More recently, several useful, but limited, bibliographies have appeared. L'Asie: ptie. Anarchist Thinkers and Thought-Paul F. Nursey-Bray 1992 This selected and annotated bibliography reflects the growing interest among scholars in anarchist thinkers and thought. This guide to primarily English sources, over a lengthy period of time, is fully annotated and covers works by and about major anarchist thinkers, philosophers, and others who are important or are on the margins of anarchist or liberal theory. It also describes important sources of information about the anarchist experience in 18 countries around the world. The volume provides useful listings of books, journals, theses, bibliographies, and other sources of information and is carefully indexed to authors, thinkers, activists, and varied subjects.
