The Girl in Room 105-Chetan Bhagat 2018-10 Hi, I'm Keshav, and my life is screwed. I hate my job and my girlfriend left me. Ah, the beautiful Zara.

Zara is from Kashmir. She is a Muslim. And did I tell you my family is a bit, well, traditional? Anyway, leave that. Zara and I broke up four years ago.

She moved on in life. I didn't. I drank every night to forget her. I called, messaged, and stalked her on social media. She just ignored me. However, that night, on the eve of her birthday, Zara messaged me. She called me over, like old times, to her hostel room 105. I shouldn't have gone, but I did... and my life changed forever. This is not a love story. It is an unlove story. From the author of Five Point Someone and 2 States, comes a fast-paced, funny and unputdownable thriller about obsessive love and finding purpose in life against the backdrop of contemporary India.

Essex Girls-Sarah Perry 2020-10-01 A defence and celebration of the Essex Girl by the best-selling author of The Essex Serpent Essex Girls are disreputable, disrespectful and disobedient. They speak out of turn, too loudly and too often, in an accent irritating to the ruling classes. Their bodies are hyper-sexualised and irredeemably vulgar. They are given to intricate and voluble squabbling. They do not apologise for any of this. And why should they? In this exhilarating feminist defence of the Essex girl, Sarah Perry re-examines her relationship with her much maligned home county. She summons its most unquiet spirits, from Protestant martyr Rose

Allin to the indomitable Abolitionist Anne Knight, sitting them alongside Audre Lorde, Kim Kardashian and Harriet Martineau, and showing us that the Essex girl is not bound by geography. She is a type, representing a very particular kind of female agency, and a very particular kind of disdain: she contains a multitude of women, and it is time to celebrate them.

The Beginning of Unity-Margaret Garth 2010-12 Salima, an island on the planet of Erion, is divided into two countries by a range of mountains. For years their only contact has been trade, but Nikkor, Prince of Westland and newly separated from his Chosen Woman, chooses to visit Eland. The publicised reasons are political; but his real reason is to seek a woman of his own choosing. He finds Kaiealestria. She is a commoner, a mountain girl, fearsomely intelligent, independent and with a temper to match his own. She is forced to accept his offer and their early days together are not peaceful. Unwillingly she is drawn into politics and strives for her own ideals of co-operation between east and west and the mountain folk of both nations. Nikkor is obliged to leave Eland to defend his country against invaders. He is triumphant, but his return to collect Kaiealestria brings more problems. The clash of their personalities is echoed in the clash of cultures and the different expectations of rich and poor. Crossing the mountains on their way back to Westland, they see the need for change in the mountain way of life, and realise that they too must change if they are to live together. Slowly, Kaiealestria learns to trust and to express love, and Nikkor learns to persuade rather than demand, and to value the contribution that the obsessive and infuriating woman he has chosen can make to his life and his country. Their marriage is the first step towards a united Salima.

New Zealand Novels and Novelists, 1861-1979-James Alexander Scott Burns 1981 More than four hundred authors and a thousand titles are included in this comprehensive bibliography that has long been required in New Zealand literature. The main entries are arranged chronologically with a brief description of the contents of each book and there are separate listings by title and by author. The chronological entries serve as a history of the development of the novel in this country, from Stoney's Taranaki of 1861 to the novels of the present day. Students of New Zealand literature, librarians and the general reader will find the bibliography of considerable value and interest both in recalling novels they have intended to read or may once have read, and in disclosing titles that would otherwise have remained unknown. An essential book for all who read novels.
