La responsabilita sociale dell'impresa nel diritto dell'Unione Europea-Alessia Di Pascale 2010

The Company Law in the European dimension-Diana Druta 2014-12-01 The transfer of companies' registered office about production activities of goods and services, it is an operation in which both the EU doctrine and case law have increasingly been converging during last decade. It matches to the phenomenon of company's "localization" (and de-localization) as a strategic leverage for managing issues into European economic system. The practice is clearly recalling the companies' freedom of establishment for economic reasons (and tax) as the engine of the European integration that guarantees to companies the way to survive to a global market and the possibility to develop their economic strategy as well as the greater competition with foreign companies.

La necessite en droit international-Sarah Cassella 2011-05-06 Cet ouvrage envisage l'etat de necessite sous une nouvelle perspective, en analysant sa fonction de limitation des obligations internationales. L'analyse de la pratique demontre qu'il permet d'eviter que la stricte observation du droit ne produise un coüt social excessif dans des situations difficiles. This book analyses state of necessity through a new perspective: its function of limitation of international obligations. State practice shows that this mechanism is meant to avoid an excessive social cost, born out of a strict compliance with the law in a hard case.

Redefining Organised Crime: A Challenge for the European Union?-Stefania Carnevale 2017-12-28 The definition of organised crime has long been the object of lively debate, at national and international level. Sociological and legal analysis has not yet led to one definitive answer to the question of what exactly 'organised crime' means. Nonetheless, many instruments adopted both at international and national levels set forth special legal regimes designed to target criminal groups featuring a stable organisation, which are perceived as particularly dangerous to society. Therefore, identifying the notion of organised crime is crucial to establishing the scope of any legal instrument specifically designed for combating it. The aim of this book is to reassess the scope, the effectiveness and the overall coherence of existing definitions of organised crime, and to identify any need for a reconsideration of these definitions, specifically with reference to the EU legal order. It will be of interest to academics, practitioners and legislators working in the sphere of EU criminal law and of organised crime more generally.

A ferro e fuoco-Enzo Traverso 2007 La prima metà del Novecento fu un'epoca di guerre, di distruzioni e rivoluzioni che mise l'Europa a ferro e fuoco. La nozione di "guerra civile europea" è quella che meglio riesce a descrivere quella terribile combinazione di guerra totale, di guerre civili locali e di genocidi, che vide anche lo scontro fra opposte visioni del mondo. Questo libro descrive i tratti principali della "guerra civile europea": il misto di violenza arcaica, fredda violenza amministrativa e tecnologia moderna per annientare il nemico, la brutalizzazione delle popolazioni forzate all'esodo o all'esilio, lo scatenamento emotivo dei conflitti fra civili all'interno delle società (Urss, 1917-23; Spagna, 1936-39; Resistenza, 1939-45), l'impero della paura e della morte nella mente degli uomini.

Conflict, Security and the Reshaping of Society-Alessandro Dal Lago 2010-07-13 A PDF version of this book is available for free in open access via www.tandfebooks.com as well as the OAPEN Library platform, www.oapen.org. It has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution-Non Commercial-No Derivatives 3.0 license and is part of the OAPEN-UK research project. This book is an examination of the effect of contemporary wars (such as the 'War on Terror') on civil life at a global level. Contemporary literature on war is mainly devoted to recent changes in the theory and practice of warfare, particular those in which terrorists or insurgents are involved (for example, the 'revolution in military affairs', 'small wars', and so on). On the other hand, today's research on security is focused, among other themes, on the effects of the war on terrorism, and on civil liberties and social control. This volume connects these two fields of research, showing how 'war' and 'security' tend to exchange targets and forms of action as well as personnel (for instance, the spreading use of private contractors in wars and of military experts in the 'struggle for security') in modern society. This shows how, contrary to Clausewitz's belief war should be conceived of as a "continuation of politics by other means", the opposite statement is also true: that politics, insofar as it concerns security, can be defined as the 'continuation of war by other means'. This book will be of much interest to students of critical security studies, war and conflict studies, terrorism studies, sociology and IR in general. Salvatore Palidda is Professor of Sociology in the Faculty of Education at the University of Genoa. Alessandro Dal Lago is Professor of Sociology of Culture and Communication at the University of Genoa.
